Contrary to the expectation of many observers thank Times, the enemy have between the first great attack of their long-superted offensive against the French, and not season the British. They have advanced to the assault on a front of about 55 miles east and west of Rheims, and their right wing to operating on the line of the Marne. It is not to be supposed that the offensive which began vesterday discloses the whole of the German plans. The enemy are known to be prepared for battle in several other sectors, and when issue has been fully joined on the front first selected we shall probably see further developments closwhere. Whatever form it may assume, this offensive will undoubtedly constitute Germany's supreme effort during the present campaigning season. The details so

FRENCH DESPATCHES.

Monday. After violent artillery preparation, the Germans attacked this morning from Château Thierry as far as Main de Massiges. Our troops are energetically resisting the shock of the enemy, on a front of about 80 kilometres.

Monday Night. The German attack began at 4.30 this morning, and continued throughout the day on both sides of Rheims with unabated violence. West of Rheims there were furious struggles in the region of Romilly-Vasay, to the south of the Marne, which the enemy succeeded in crossing at some points, between Fossoy and Dormans.

A vigorous counter attack by the American troops succeeded in driving back to the north bank some enemy elements which had reached the southern bank west of Fossoy.

Between Dormans and Rheims, Franco-Italian troops are resisting with tenacity on the line Chaillon-sur-Marne-Cuchary-Margaux-East of Rheims the enemy attack, which was extended from Sillary to Main de Massiges, came up against an impregnable defence. The enemy has renewed his efforts against Prunay and Les Marquises, in the regions to the north of Prosnes and Souain, and in spite of repeated attacks has not been able to make a breach in our REPORT STAGE. In the House of Commons yesterday, the English Education Bill, as amended in Committees, was considered on Report.

Mr. KING moved a new clause, providing that in all schools, colleges, or institutions aided or maintained by contributions from the local authority, or from the money provided by Parliament, teachers shall be appointed without reference to religious creed or denomination.

HERBERT FISHER anid that the amendment raised a grave question of educational policy which the Government were pre-cluded from considering at that juncture, because it, we are acuted considering at the juncture, because it, we are acuted constrained question, and the second properties of the properties of th of sex.

Mr. HERBERT FISHER, in resisting the mendment, said that so long as the State ecognised the differentiation in the case of its wan servants he could not sanction in the case of the servants of the local methods. theree.

Mr. FISHER admitted that the effect of the amendment would be to impose a new charge, or to increase an existing charge.

The SPEAKER said that the amendment was not of order at this stage. The best course out of the difficulty would be to re-commit the bill before third reading for the purpose of having this amendment in particular than the amendment in the stage.
